Association of Infant Mental Health
in Tennessee
446 Metroplex Drive, Ste A-224
NASHVILLE, TN 37211

Dear Angela:

We sincerely appreciate the opportunity to help you with your tax compliance work. This letter is to specify the terms of our engagement with you, to clarify the nature and extent of the services we will provide, and to confirm an understanding of our mutual responsibilities.

Our Responsibilities

Blankenship CPA Group, PLLC (Blankenship) will prepare your federal and state (if applicable) tax-exempt organization returns from information which you will furnish to us. If requested, we will also prepare Forms 1099 and 1096. In addition, we will be available to assist with other filings if requested by you. We will not be responsible for advising you with respect to independent contractor status as a part of our services. If you have any questions regarding the classification of employees versus independent contractors, we strongly encourage you to consult with legal counsel experienced in employment practice matters. If we consult with you on tax related planning matters throughout the course of the years or represent you should you be audited, this letter conveys our engagement terms. The returns will be prepared in accordance with the appropriate federal and state(s) income tax laws and regulations. We will use our professional judgment in resolving tax law questions or when conflicts exist among taxing authorities' interpretations of the law and other supportable positions.

We will render such accounting and bookkeeping assistance as determined to be necessary for preparation of the income tax returns. If we discover information that affects your prior-year tax return(s), we will make you aware of the facts. However, we cannot be responsible for identifying all items that may affect prior-year return(s). If you become aware of such information during the year, please contact us to discuss the best resolution of the issue. We will not audit or otherwise verify the data you submit, although it may be necessary to ask you for clarification of some of the information. It is not our responsibility to detect fraud. Our work in connection with the preparation of your income tax return(s) does not include any procedures designed to discover defalcation, fraud, and/or irregularities, should any exist.

We will not ever intentionally disclose your information to anyone without your knowledge, and we will secure your data under our obligations with applicable laws and standards. We will retain our working papers and your provided information items while normal IRS statutes remain open. The Internal Revenue Service has indicated that they will increase their enforcement to ensure accurately prepared returns through additional audit examinations as well as issuing written notices requesting documentation to support specific tax return deductions. As always, we strongly suggest that you contemporaneously maintain adequate records and retain them with your tax return in case your return is selected for one of these IRS inquiries.

Your Responsibilities

You are responsible for the proper recording of transactions in the books of account, for the safeguarding of assets and for the substantial accuracy of the financial records. Your responsibility is to provide information to us that is accurate and complete to the best of your knowledge and to maintain records required by law including the specific documentation required for items such as meals, travel, barter, business gifts, charitable contributions, dues and memberships, business purpose of expenditures, bank records, vehicle use logs, etc., when applicable. This information may be necessary to prove the accuracy and completeness of your returns to a taxing authority. You represent that information submitted to us is accurate and that you have disclosed all relevant known facts affecting the returns. You are responsible for your tax payments, actions, and omissions. You may be liable for penalties and interest in certain situations should you fail to: disclose information to us, pay your tax liabilities timely, avoid or disclose engagement in a prohibited transaction, or rely on substantial authority. It is your responsibility to inform us of interstate activities, international activities and assets, and substantiate matters represented as fact to us as we serve you. You have the final responsibility for your income tax returns, so please review them carefully prior to signing and filing them.

Fees and Other Matters

Our fees for these services are not contingent on results, but on a number of factors including the time spent, the complexity of the matters addressed, the team member on the engagement, and any out of pocket expenditures we incur in serving you. All invoices are due and payable upon presentation. We may charge interest on any balance outstanding more than thirty days.

This professional tax services agreement is perpetual in nature and shall remain in force annually unless terminated by either you or us for any reason, during or after annual engagements. If you are non-responsive to requests for information, we will likely consider that your notification to us that you no longer require our services. If you have not informed us that you are no longer using our firm, you give us permission to consider filing an extension on your behalf to help you avoid potential penalties, though we may not do so if you do not respond to us.

We will provide services within the scope of our profession as requested and acknowledged. We may need to utilize domestic third party computer programming, software, and services in completing our engagement. You agree with us that should any conflict arise surrounding the terms of our engagement with you, we both waive the right to a jury trial and must pursue mediation prior to filing suit in order to avoid the stress, cost and burden of the court systems. Damages to either party must be actual and quantifiable, and you are not entitled to rely on tax advice unless it is requested and provided in writing in a media other than text messaging. Certain communications involving tax advice may be privileged and not subject to disclosure to the Internal Revenue Service and state taxing authorities. By disclosing the contents of those communications to anyone, or by turning over any information about those communications to the federal and state government(s), you, your fellow officers, employees or agents may be waiving this privilege. To protect these rights to privileged communication please consult with us or your attorney prior to disclosing any information about our tax advice. Your return(s) may be selected for audit by the Internal Revenue Service or a state taxing authority. If the examining agent makes any proposed adjustments, they are subject to certain rights of appeal. In the event of such an examination, we will be available to represent you upon your request to do so. Fees for representation in an audit are not included in the fees for preparation of the return(s).

If the foregoing fairly sets forth your understanding, please sign this engagement letter below and timely return it to us. Our quality control standards require receipt of an engagement letter prior to releasing our work product. We are very grateful to you for choosing our firm and look forward to serving you for many years to come. Mission: Association of Infant Mental Health in Tennessee fosters healthy social and emotional development of infants and young children through: learning and collaboration among families, caregivers, providers, educators, agencies, and systems impacting the lives of infants and young children, and public policy engagement at the local, state and national levels that supports the healthy social and emotional development of infants, young children and their families. Infant and Early Childhood Mental Health (IECMH) is the developing capacity of children birth to age 5 to experience, regulate, and express emotions; form close, secure interpersonal relationships; and explore the environment and learn, all in the context of relationships with their families, communities and cultures. support infants, young children and families. The Professional Development work of AIMHiTN includes Infant Mental Health (IMH) Endorsement® for Culturally Sensitive, Relationship-Focused Practice Promoting Infant Mental Health (IMH-E®). IMH-E® is an internationally recognized credential that supports and recognizes the development and proficiency of professionals who work with or on behalf of young children, ages birth to three, and their families. It is based on a set of Competencies designed to support and enhance culturally-sensitive, relationship focused practice within the framework of infant and early childhood mental health. Establishing these standards leads to a more capable workforce and raises the expertise of those providing care and education for infants and very young children.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c - Third Accomplishment

Infant and early childhood mental health is rooted in the science that asserts that a child's early experiences have lifelong consequences. We know that responsive and consistent relationships from caregivers support the development of healthy social-emotional skills, which become the foundation of a young child's mental health. Therefore, it is crucial that caregivers for young children have the necessary knowledge and skills to promote healthy development and be able to identify and appropriately address early signs of risk and delays. AIMHiTN training & technical assistance programs focus on a broad array of topics and encompass the infant mental health competencies, and include concepts such as:

- understanding the importance of healthy relationships and attachment;
- understanding the importance of healthy social and emotional development;
- understanding the importance of brain development and the impact of early adverse experiences; how temperament affects children's responsiveness to
