starting new programs.

This shift is designed to empower volunteers to develop a path of excellence for their programs. With these changes, Best Buddies staff have cultivated new leaders who are quickly growing and supporting our programs independently, thus allowing staff to focus on expanding new chapters, developing and leading trainings, and fostering new volunteers to share the mission. The Best Buddies' friendship programs year in review below showcases the progress being made globally to reach our 2020 initiative through expansion efforts globally.

2018, Virginia, Tennessee, Missouri, and Oregon markets expanded programming offered to adults by cultivating one to one matches between corporate partners and community members with IDD. Best Buddies has seen the quickest - and most accessible - growth with this model, our citizens chapter program. This model, which establishes friendships between employees at a Best Buddies partner company and adults with IDD in the surrounding community, is successful for three reasons. This model allows for the company to have ownership, independence, and empowerment in developing friendships; it connects corporate partners more deeply to the mission; and it is easier to manage since the model mirrors the longstanding friendship model. With this model, staff are able to use tools, resources, and experiences to cultivate friendship matches in new areas with adults. As a result, small markets that did not previously offer adult programming, like Missouri and Oregon, have thriving adult opportunities. Cultivating these inclusive opportunities has established more visible and accessible lifelong opportunities for volunteers and furthered the awareness and value of Best Buddies programs in new community markets.

Best Buddies Colleges

Best Buddies' cornerstone program continues to expand and has been instrumental in driving mission-focused awareness and promoting expansion opportunities across the country. This has been especially true in areas where Best Buddies is concentrating expansion efforts, like the Pacific Northwest. At the University of Washington, community members were introduced to the mission by volunteers who advocated for the program with campus administration, wrote to media sources, and met with com from 46 US states, as well as international participants from the countries Australia, Austria, Canada, China, Germany, India, Ireland, Jamaica, Malaysia, Netherlands, New Zealand, South Africa, South Korea, Thailand, Trinidad and Tobago, Turkey, United Arab Emirates and the United Kingdom. In 2018, e-Buddies served over 2,000 total participants through 1,228 unique one-to-one matches. These participants exchanged over 45,000 emails.

This past year, e-Buddies made a concerted effort to enhance program involvement amongst young adults. This specifically targeted college students involved in Best Buddies chapters. With an increasing interest of buddies, ages 18 to 22 years, college students have been the ideal market to recruit volunteers to be matched in e-Buddies. With an additional emphasis on transition opportunities for Best Buddies participants in the age-range, the e-Buddies program - which offers literacy training, computer skills, and social opportunities in a safe and regulated environment - has been instrumental to teachers with students looking to develop these skills.
